

Andrés Lacherre

MS Student

Andrés Lacherre was born in Jesús María, Argentina. His first contact with the environment and its care began as a child, working alongside his father as a volunteer in a nature reserve. This interest led him to pursue a degree in Agricultural Engineering at the National University of Córdoba, where he realized that his true passion was animal production, and more precisely, ruminant nutrition. For three years after graduation, he worked as a manager at a feedlot in Argentina. In 2023, Andrés was accepted for an internship with Dr. Nicolás DiLorenzo at the University of Florida, North Florida Research and Education Center in Marianna. As a result, Andrés was invited to pursue a master's degree under the supervision of Dr. DiLorenzo in 2025.