

Wilmer was born in Bogotá (Colombia) in 1984. He attended the Animal Science program at Universidad Nacional de Colombia where he completed his undergraduate studies in 2006. Wilmer obtained a diploma in Animal Nutrition in 2009 and a MSc in 2011 at the Universidad Nacional de Colombia. From 2011 – 2019, Wilmer was employed as a lecturer in the dairy nutrition and animal feeding areas in several Colombian universities including UFPSO, UCC, UDEC, and UNAD. In 2019, Wilmer entered into the Comparative Medicine and Integrative Biology program at the Veterinary College of MSU on a scholarship and obtained a MSc (2021) in the field of dairy nutrition and immunology. In 2021, Wilmer began a PhD program at the University of Florida in Animal Sciences, focusing on the elucidation of the efficiency of ruminal microorganism growth to improve beef and dairy productivity in the US. Wilmer is a devoted husband and proud father of two.